NOTABLE FEATURES

MOTIVATIONS

AMBITION

Ambition: Power

Kaz does not necessarily wish to have power -over others-, but there is something in him that wants to prove that he can overcome the challenges set before him. Jedi Masters are some of the most respected and formidable people in the galaxy, and Kaz believes that joining their ranks one day will prove -to others and to himself - that he's not the fuck-up he started out as.

POWER

BELIEF

Belief: The Jedi

Kaz's Master was the first person who made Kaz feel like he was worth reaching. Wo is an exacting Master, but Kaz wouldn't change anything about his tutelage. He believes it's made him stronger, more ready to withstand the trials ahead. The path of the Jedi is a lifeline of hope and promise. Kaz has seen their teachings affect good in the world, and he is vehemently proud to be part of that effort.

THE JEDI

CAUSE

Kaz has taken to heart the idea that might doesn't make right, despite how often his natural self leans away from that. He believes in helping the innocent and seeing the guilty brought to justice, and takes a great deal of comfort in looking back on how his efforts have helped to accomplish this, even in small ways.

STORY

Kaz Doth remembers less about his home world of Iridonia than he cares to admit. He was removed from it at a young age when his sensitivity to the Force was uncovered. Like so many young Zabrak males, Kaz was over-confident, aggressive, and impatient, and constantly butted heads with his brother and parents. It was his mother who worked to get the attention of the Jedi, in hopes they would teach her son to temper his will before he did real harm somehow. In his youth, Kaz saw this as a kind of betrayal, an attempt by his mother to shunt a problematic child off to be someone else's burden. Though age has softened his view of his mother's efforts, his relationship with his family never truly recovered.

He has found a new family in the Jedi, not the least of which is Master Wo Rosh, who oversaw Kaz's ascension into knighthood. Also a Zabrak, Master Wo empathized a great deal with Kaz's struggles, but was a no-nonsense Master who had blisteringly high expectations of young Kaz. There were plenty of missteps, not the least of which was the loss of a fellow padawan's arm when Kaz failed to rein himself in during training. But eventually, with great effort, Kaz began to master his emotions and energy, and succeeded in joining the ranks of the Jedi Knights.

Kaz still struggles at times with the balance between positive energy and naked aggression, but it is a war in which he is ever vigilant. His reputation includes tales of his great discipline, but also the fearsome warrior who emerges when that discipline slips.
